

About Chickens

by: _____

Glue some straw down for the nest.

Hens lay about 280 eggs a year. Some eggs go to grocery stores and some become chicks. Chickens make nests out of straw or grass.

A female chicken is called a hen and a male chicken is called a rooster.

Glue chicken feed here.

Chickens eat grains like corn, millet, and milo.
They also eat many bugs and worms.

Chickens are useful. They produce eggs and can be used for meat. Their feathers are also used in animal feed (for protein) and as fertilizer for plants.
