

Pigs are omnivores. That means they can eat grains, vegetables, fruit, and meat. In the United States, we feed our pigs grain like corn, wheat, and soybeans. Pigs that are fed grain have less fat and more meat.

Most hogs are raised in states where corn and soybeans are grown. The top corn states are Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Minnesota, Indiana, Kansas, South Dakota, and Missouri. Color these corn belt states—the ones with the pig pictures—yellow.

-USDA 2020 Statistics

Page 4 Can you name the pork products? Draw a line from the word to the pork product.

Pepperoni Hotdog Sausage Bacon Ham

Hogs are raised to provide several pork products. Pig skin is used as leather to make shoes and footballs. Doctors use pig skin for people who have been burned. Pigs are also used to make some medicines.